RAIN DAMAGE INCREASED IN MARION AREA

Galion and Vicinity Especially Hard Hit by Torrential Downpour.

Heavy rains over Marion and nearby counties last night started streams rising barely after they had receded following heavy rains the early part of the week. Agricultural crop damage was reported, and at Galion extensive property damage resulted from a torrential rain which fell for about an hour last night, accompanied by an electrical storm.

Damage estimated at between $1,500 and $2,000 was caused when water entered the Fisher Printing Co. plant in Galion where nearly seven tons of paper were stored. Two feet of water was standing in the room. A celery farm owned by John Vossers and located on muck land near Galion was inundated and the crop severely damaged.

Underpass Flooded

Travelers from Mansfield to Galion reported water filled a railway underpass on Route 30-S a short distance west of Mansfield, forcing traffic to detour through Crestline. Water was standing six feet deep over the county line road between Morrow and Crawford counties southeast of Galion.

Chickens drowned during the night were strewn over farmlands and roads throughout the storm area, it was reported.

In Marion county water swept over Route 30-S southeast of Caledonia, and traffic was forced to detour. It was expected that the water would recede far enough to allow passage of traffic by noon today. Route 746 between Caledonia and Route 95 was also closed by high water.

Roads To West Flooded

Roads around LaRue and Agosta inundated the first part of the week were still closed although some had been opened as water receded. The county highway garage reported this morning that more signs had been placed after last night's heavy rains.

At LaRue the Scioto river was rising again after having dropped during the middle of the week. At Green Camp and Prospect where water had also receded, the river showed no signs of rising this morning. Reports from Prospect said the river had dropped five feet. Earlier in the week it had entered the testing building of the Hanley Engineering Service and surrounded several houses in the southern section of the town. In Marion .57 of an inch of rain fell yesterday and last night.

Electric Storm Hits Galion, Morrow Co.

Special to The Star

GALION, June 7 — A cloudburst struck Galion about 8 p. m. Friday, accompanied by a violent electrical storm, causing many streets to be flooded and blocking traffic in several sections. Torrential rain fell for nearly an hour, while a heavy rainfall continued for several hours afterward.

Lightning struck a power pole about 8:30 p. m., and the hot flaming wires had to be extinguished. In the middle of the storm, the fire department was called out to the Hoffman Paint shop on Route 30-S, east of Galion, where fire fighters found smoke but no fire.

Violence of the storm put out street lights in several sections of town, while lights were out in the residential southwest district.

About 10 p. m., the fire department went out with its pumps to take water from the city water improvement plant where it had flowed in. It was first feared that water would get into the city pumps and cut off the supply.

Motorists coming in to Galion from the north, reported that the entire section was like a lake for a distance of about three miles from Galion. Reports came to the police station that other-out-lying roads were flooded with water as well as many city streets, including South Boston, South Union, Charles street, South street and South Market street. Water was across the South State road near the Gledhill Road Machinery Co., the first time the water had ever been that high at that particular place.

Some telephone lines were also out, it was reported.

The evening storm was the second heavy rain of the day, a heavy rain hitting the city about 7:30 a. m., flooding streets.

BOUND FOR 35TH DIVISION REUNION. Off for Missouri and the reunion of his World War I division, President Harry S. Truman is accompanied from Washington, D. C., by his chief of staff, Adm. William D. In addition to meeting his war buddies in Kansas City, the chief executive is visiting his 94-year-old mother at Grandview, Mo. (International Soundphoto).

TRUMAN VISITS MOTHER, VETS

Divides Time Between Improving Parent, and Old War Buddies.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, June 7—President Truman divided his time today between his bed-ridden mother at Grandview and comrades with whom he served in World War I.

He set out to witness the first post-war II parade of veterans of the 35th Division before driving to Grandview for his second visit in two days with Mrs. Martha E. Truman.

He found the 94-year-old patient so improved yesterday that he gave his sitser, Miss Mary Jane Truman, a brief holiday from her nursing chore by bringing her into Kansas City to attend a reception and hear an address by General Dwight D. Eisenhower last night.

The chief of staff declared "we intend to continue the firm champion of those who seek to lead their own lives in peace," despite any "hostility" from another nation.

He did not name Russia but General Eisenhower noted that "at least one of the powerful nations does not see eye to eye with us on measure for the stability peace demands."

"We do not dictate to any nation what it does internally," he added those nations seeking to lead their own lives in peace with world neighbors will continue to be championed by this country, he said.

The general added that without American aid, guidance and leadership "there is immediate danger of social, political and economic chaos among hundreds of millions."

Of the "course we deem right," Eisenhower declared another nation's "indifference, or even hostility, must not deflect us."

The President, one-time head of the 35th Division association, will speak tonight in a major address starting at 10:30 p. m. (eastern standard time).

Oil Co. Prepares To Clear Center - State Building Site

Work of razing buildings on East Center street to make way for what will eventually become a Pure Oil Co. super-service store, is expected to start about the middle of next week.

The buildings are on the north side of Center street, extending from North State street to the first north and south alley to the east. Included are an old church building, once occupied by a Baptist congregation. In recent years it has housed the offices and garage of the Yellow Taxi Co. Other buildings, adjacent to the intersection, contain four store rooms and upstairs apartments. All have been vacated. The taxi company will move soon to quarters now being built adjoining the Fralich Pure Oil station on North State street.

Contract for razing the buildings was awarded in Columbus yesterday to Elmer O. Heath of Middleburg, O. The work is expected to require 90 days for completion.

Building Limited Now

Extent of the building program to be carried on immediately by the oil company is indefinite for the present, Henry A. Krigbaum, Marion district manager, said today.

Building for the present will be limited by government restrictions on commercial structures. It is expected, however, that tanks, pumps and other facilities can be installed as soon as the area is cleared. Any building erected now must be within the cost limit of government restrictions.

When possible to do so, the company intends to erect a building of considerable floor space which will include serving station facilities as well as a super-service store.

Boundaries of Tract

The oil company several months ago acquired title to an L-shaped tract which includes most of the land within these boundaries: from State street to the first alley east of the taxi office and north from Center street to the alley north. The exception is the Llewellyn apartment building on North State, the first floor of which is occupied by the Chamber of Commerce offices and the federal labor union.

NURSE FINDS BRUISED BODIES

No Motive Apparent in Brutal Slaying of Infant Girls.

By The Associated Press

MASSILLON, O., June 7—Two infant girls were battered to death in the pediatrics nursery of City hospital last night by an unidentified assailant whose motive was unknown, police announced today.

Although the nursery sometimes contains as many as 30 children, the two victims were the sole occupants last night. They were:

Rosemary Morton, nine weeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Morton.

Diane J. Brand, eight weeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Brand.

Nurse Finds Bodies

A nurse, Marian Silleck, found the babies' bodies by their cribs last night. The bed clothing on a third crib was pulled back.

The Stark county coroner, Dr. Edward Reno, said the infants died "of injuries caused by blunt force."

Police Chief Stanley W. Switter, who headed an investigating detail, said the attacker may have picked them up and struck them against the floor. Dirt smudges were found on the head of the Brand baby.

Visiting Restricted

The police believed the attack was made between 7:35 and 7:45 last night. Visiting to the nursery was restricted on Friday nights, and patrolmen made immediate efforts to contact any of the few visitors.

Stark County Prosecutor Deane MacLaughlin, who participated in the investigation, said that in his view, hospital authorities had not been lax in their responsibilities. "In no way did I find any neglect of proper duty or care," he added.

The Brand baby was admitted to the hospital last Monday for an operation and the Morton baby had been there since May 19 for observation.

Attendants Break News

A 26-year-old steel worker, the father of the Brand baby related in a voice broken at intervals by emotion how he was called to the hospital last night under the delusion he was to offer his own blood for a transfusion.

When he entered the hospital, attendants broke the news of the death of little Diane, the only child of the young Brands.

"Edna is pretty well broken up," Leo Brand said of his wife, who gave birth to the child March 26 and returned happily to her modest home April 2.

Little Diane underwent surgery to correct an abdominal condition last Monday.

Alerted for Transfusion

"The passage into her stomach was too small," explained her grief-stricken father. "I had been alerted to be ready to give her a transfusion.

"That's what I thought the call was about last night.

The 26-year-old mother, too, thought she was going to her baby's side while physicians administered whole blood as a strength-giving measure.

Then followed a sleepless, nerve-wracking night of speculation.

"I simply can't figure out who would do such a thing," the father said.

Father Says, "No Clues"

"No, there are no clues so far as I know."

The father sat near the telephone awaiting news of the hunt launched for the killer, still without sleep since the news came to him within half an hour after the body of his baby daughter was found sprawled in the hospital nursery.

Chief Switter echoed Brand's statement there were "no clues" in the case, and said he did not expect any immediate developments.

The Morton child died at 9:02 p. m. and the Brand baby at 10:10 p. m., the hospital reported.

Chief Switter announced that the hospital would be provided with police protection on a 24-hour basis on the theory that a maniac might be at large. The officer said he had no indications that this might be the case but that he wanted to take all possible precautions.

40-TO-1 SHOT WINS 168TH ENGLISH DERBY

By The Associated Press

EPSOM DOWNS, June 7—Pearl Diver, a 40 to 1 French horse owned by Baron G. De Waldner, scored an astonishing four-length victory in the 168th running of the English derby today as the shortest priced favorite in more than a decade—Tudor Minstrel — finished out of the money.

Backed down to 4 to 7 and virtually conceded the $38,404 winner's pot in all the pre-race speculation, Tudor Minstrel finished a faltering fourth, carrying with him, in defeat once more, Gordon Richards, who is the world champion of jockeys,—but has never won a derby.

A crowd of nearly half-a-million, including the royal family, turned out for this renewal of England's ancient classic and saw the colt many had been calling Britain's "horse of the century" come home far out of it—behind the flying French winner, and Migoli, 100-6 shot who was the Aga Khan's hope for a fourth derby triumph, and Sayajirao, the $117,600 purchase of the Maharaja of Baroda, highest-priced yearling in turf history.

Sayajirao had been 6 to 1 second choice to Tudor Minstrel in the betting, but wound up three-quarters of a length back of Migoli, as Jockey G. Bridgeland drove Pearl Diver to his smashing victory in this field of 15.

Bucyrus Jr. C. of C. To War on Flies, Mosquitoes

BUCYRUS, June 7—A project aimed at extermination of flies and mosquitos in Bucyrus has been undertaken by the Bucyrus Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Jaycees have named Dick Ulmer to head the project of fly control and Clifton Woltz to direct the mosquito control.

General plans call for spraying with DDT in downtown Bucyrus and placing of an oil tank at the Bucyrus golf course for discharging oil into Sandusky river for mosquito control.

LABOR BILL DUMPED INTO TRUMAN'S LAP

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 7—Congress wrapped up the Taft-Hartley labor bill for President Truman today and tagged it: approved by overwhelming majorities of both the senate and house.

And Republican leaders predicted confidently that if the Chief Executive vetoes the big measure curbing union activities, congress will override his decision.

That takes a two to one majority. Here is the picture:

The senate approved the bill late yesterday by a vote of 54 to 17, completing congressional action. That's a three to one margin—better than the G.O.P. leadership expects to muster on a veto test, if one comes.

The house slapped its okay on the bill earlier this week, 320 to 79, or four to one. So proponents there are not worried.

Senator Taft (Ohio), chairman of the senate's Republican policy and labor committees, told a reporter he was "pleased" by the senate vote and still is confident a veto can be overcome, if necessary.

But he forecast that the margin would be something closer to the 68 to 24 vote by which the senate passed its original bill. The compromise measure it approved yesterday is a compromise of separate bills passed by the house and senate.

1361 Graduate At Ohio State

Crowd Defies Threatening Weather as 4 Receive Honorary Degrees.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 7—Ohio State university's commencement week thinned out today following colorful open-air graduation exercises late yesterday.

In huge Ohio stadium 1,361 graduates and four visiting dignitaries defied threatening elements to receive from President Howard L. Bevis diplomas and the customary collegiate honorary degrees.

Previously, most of political Columbus buzzed about the reunion-luncheon given for Dayton's Jimmy Cox—James M. Cox, former governor, former presidential candidate and present publisher of newspapers at Dayton and Springfield, O., Atlanta, Ga., and Miami, Fla.

Cox came to receive, with three others, the honorary degree of doctor of laws. But more than 100 of his old-time cronies and cohorts of the 1912-20 era who helped him remake Ohio's government took him in tow for a rollicking session of speeches and reminiscing.

Recalls His Administration

Cox spoke of the 1912 constitutional convention that gave Ohio its new constitution. He mentioned the compulsory workmen's compensation law and the rural school code, both products of his own four terms of office.

He chided the present legislature (strongly Republican) by noting it still was in session five months after convening, and declared: "We completed our job by the 10th of April."

When the affair broke up later, many went to the stadium to see Jim Cox receive his degree along with one other Ohioan, President Cecil V. Thomas of Cleveland's Fenn college.

Bishop Gives Address

They heard Rt. Rev. Michael J. Ready, bishop of the Columbus Roman Catholic diocese, state in the commencement address:

"Until America takes up her first duty of religion, she will be powerless to secure full harmony at home or effective cooperation in the movement for world peace which she is basically qualified to lead.

"We confess in all sincerity that on our shield of national honor are blots of racial and religious bigotry, economic prejudice, greed and intolerance... we acknowledge an alarming lack of integrity in individuals and in social life; a revolting debauchery in family life, and a grievious loss of loyalty to God and to religion among great numbers of our citizens.

"But...for the most part there is a generous practical tolerance toward all men, a capacity and general desire to work, and...a strong, deep, universal and genuine desire for peace."

Marion County Group Attends Graduation

Parents and other relatives and friends of Marion county students who were graduated from Ohio State university yesterday afternoon attended the ceremony in the stadium. In addition to the names of Marion students receiving degrees which were published recently in The Star was E. M. Breithaupt Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Breithaupt of Marion avenue, who received a master of arts degree.

Robert T. Moore of Morehant avenue, a graduate of the university in 1922, was presented as a representative of the class graduated 25 years ago. Recognition was paid to Mr. Moore and also to a representative of the class of 50 years ago.

TAFT SAYS TRUMAN TAX STAND VARIES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 7—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) today demanded to know how President Truman can argue against a tax cut for individuals when he gave his blessing to one for corporations in 1945.

Pouring new ammunition into his running fight with Mr. Truman over economic issues, Taft told a reporter:

"It has been suggested by some that the President should veto the tax bill because it might lead to a deficit if we have a serious recession.

"But only two years ago the President recommended and approved a reduction of $6,000,000,000 for the most part for corporations, when we faced a deficit of $20,000,000,000 in the fiscal year 1946."

The tax bill now before the President would save individuals about $4,000,000,000 by reducing levies 10.5, 20 and 30 per cent in various brackets.

Mr. Truman is expected to define sharply in a major speech in Kansas City tonight some of his differences with congressional Republicans over domestic policy. He will talk before veterans of the 35th Division, in which he served in the First World War.

There was no indication whether he would reply to Taft's assertion yesterday that Mr. Truman and the Democratic administration must bear the responsibility for "having created all the basic conditions which compel high prices."

Newark Slayer To Get "Life"

Sentence Is Mandatory After Finding of Guilt In Second Degree.

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, O., June 7 — Licking county's record of never having sent a convicted felon to his death still was intact today following the midnight verdict of a jury of eight men and four women that Ralph David Hoffer, 23-year-old dishonorably discharged war veteran, had murdered Mrs. Thelma Harger Anderson, 17, beaten to death last July 27.

Foreman William Donaldson and his jury colleagues, deliberating 7½ hours, chose the third of Judge Clifford L. Belt's suggested seven possible verdicts and convicted Hoffer of murder in the second degree.

The verdict carrying a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment would make Hoffer eligible for parole after 20-years servitude.

Solitary Confinement Ordered

Calm throughout the trial, he showed no emotion when Judge Belt announced sentence nor did he flinch when the bench ordered that the first 10 years of his term to be spent at hard labor—and that every July 27 Hoffer was to

Heated Fight Over Dillon Dam Laid Before House Committee

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 7—A heated dispute over the Dillon dam project in Ohio went today to the house appropriations committee.

Two of the states' congressmen took opposing sides at a closed hearing on an army engineer's request for $3,400,000 for work on the job during the 12 months beginning July 1.

Chairman Engel (R-Mich.) of the committee said the Dillon dam funds would be the order of morning business.

Representative McGregor (R-Ohio) told a reporter he contends that construction money ought to be withheld in the light of local disagreement over the program.

Some farmers in the Licking river area object to the project on the ground that much rich farm land and property would be flooded by waters from the big dam.

Rep. Griffith (R-Ohio) said he advocates appropriation of the money and said the question of the size of the dam could be erased by agreement later.

Griffiths represents Zanesville and other communities that need water. He said Dillon dam would meet that need.

"Or," he said, "there could be several smaller dams which would assure flood controls as well as adequate water."

Up stream folks who would not benefit from flood control oppose the project. Rep. McGregor is backing them. He said a reporter that he might [illegible] to deny construction funds until the dispute is settled.

"It would be inadvisable," he said, "to approve an expenditure for work which might be abandoned."

In this connection he referred to his bill to repeal the law authorizing Dillon dam. Hearings on this are set for June 25 before the house public works committee.

Besides the disagreement over the necessity for the dam, there also is a difference over the ultimate cost.

Congress authorized an expenditure of about $10,000,000 on the basis of engineering estimates.

McGregor said current prices would double the estimate.

He also suggested that Dillon dam was considered as one of a series of smaller projects.

"We were told," he said, "that eastern Ohio's flood problems would be solved by the big Muskingum valley program which cost $100,000,000. Now, it is said that plan is enough. I doubt it."

COUNTY ROAD WORK TO START MONDAY

Upper Sandusky Firm To Handle Road Repairs.

Walter W. Johnson, Marion county engineer, announced today that the county road surfacing program will be started Monday, if the weather permits.

The work will be done by the U. S. Construction Co., of Upper Sandusky, which was awarded the contract on its low bid of $72,779.37, and consists of an application of approximately one inch of road mixed stone and tar, with a topping of asphalt and stone chips. In all 44 miles of road will receive treatment, with 32 miles being retreated and 12 miles being new work. The roads are in all parts of the county.

Mr. Johnson said that the roads will not be closed during the work, except for short periods when the actual mixing is taking place, and he expressed hope that motorists would cooperate, not only for the convenience of the contractor, but by so doing they can avoid travel delay and tar on their cars.

The work will be supervised by James T. Johnson, county engineer.

YOUR HEALTH

Sinus Infection

Penicillin is a great germ fighter but to be effective it must be brought into direct contact with the germs causing an infection and kept there long enough to kill them In some diseases this can be accomplished by injecting penicillin into a muscle so that it can be taken up by the blood stream in others the best method is to give it by mouth

But where that very common trouble-maker, sinus infection, is concerned penicillin does not work well when given in either of these ways

The nasal sinuses are air chambers connected by tiny passageways with the nose When they become infected they are usually filled with germ-containing mucus or pus Thus penicillin in the blood cannot reach most of the germs which are keeping the infection alive

It may be very useful in this disorder however, when breathed into the nose in the form of a spray According to Dr Alvan L Barach and his co-workers of New York, a special apparatus is required to get the penicillin into the sinuses What is necessary, is to drive the air out of the sinuses before the penicillin spray is breathed in The apparatus which he suggests in connection with a tank of oxygen as well as with an apparatus for producing suction

In carrying out the treatment, the patient breathes in the penicillin spray After two or three breaths, during which time the nasal passages become filled with the penicillin spray, the suction is applied and the patient is asked to swallow As a result of this treatment, the penicillin spray enters the various sinuses

Patients with chronic sinus infection will it is suggested may be given treatment four times a day In cases of acute infection of the sinuses the treatment is carried out once daily. Of course, this treatment can be carried out only under the direction of a physician who is supplied with the proper apparatus

Chronic sinus infection produces such symptoms as continued nasal discharge, headache, and pains in the face

A definite diagnosis can usually be made by means of an X-ray examination, a study of the nose by the physician, and what is called transillumination which consists of showing a light through the sinuses with the patient in a darkened room Any sinuses which appear cloudy or through which the light does not pass, are probably infected. Once a definite diagnosis has been made, the physician will decide just what treatment would be best

Boyle Calls Hollywood Grownups' Fairy Tale

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD, June 7 — A transient in Hollywood is a man who has lived here three months and doesn't own a swimming pool.

This is the third time I have come to the movie capital, and every time I like it better. I like it because after a couple of days the delusions of grandeur that float around here become rosy and real.

The nicest kind of delusions you get in an unexcited excitement. Anything seems possible, and you begin to talk of big money in an offhand way—justlike a native.

Hal Boyle

I like Hollywood because you can't really kid it. It lets the rest of the country sniff at it, deride it for its pretension —and it just keeps on getting bigger and more glamorous every year.

Example Cited

I'll tell you a little story just to show why you can't get the drop on Hollywood. A writer friend of mine who used to lead a pinched life in Greenwich Village came out here several years ago and landed a minor job in a studio script department. I met him recently and said jokingly: "Well, I hear you just bought a mountain and built a big house and swimming pool on it."

"Where did you hear that?" he asked seriously.

"Oh, the word gets around," I said, to continue the pleasantry.

No Mountain—Just Hill

"That's a little exaggerated," he said. "I did buy a hilltop with a house, and I'm having a swimming pool built. But you really couldn't call it a mountain."

That experience convinced me you can't win by kidding the film colony. It has a way of making the outlandish come true.

Hollywood does for the grownups of America what the fairy tale books do for children. Visiting this land of make-believe is as exhilarating as a bucket of champagne, but you don't have to leave it with a hangover—that is, if you take the precaution to tie up your pocketbook with five yards of adhesive tape the day you arrive.

The aura of money lights up every one like the neon glow over Times Square. It does funny things to people.

I met a film publicity man who had taken a new job but said he wasn't going to work too hard at it.

"I'm mad at the producer," he said. "I asked him for $300 a week, and he beat me down to $250."

"What's the most you ever made before?" I asked.

"Two hundred a week—but I'm trying to break into the $300 bracket. And this guy chisels me down. So I'm taking it easy. No use breaking your back for a guy like that."

This heady feeling for money has spread even to the servants of the film bigwigs. A friend told me of a producer who ought to solve the servant problem a year ago by taking into his home an elderly couple on their uppers. He had to teach them their duties.

"They get their room and board and two and a half days a week off," said my friend, "but now they've decided the producer is gypping them by paying them only $375 a month salary. They're striking for $400."

That's Hollywood. The producer — purely as a matter of principle — is standing firm at $375.

Delegates Will Go to Red Cross Convention in Cleveland Next Week.

Delegates from the Marion County Chapter of the American Red Cross will join others from all parts of the nation for the 1947 National Convention of the organization next week at Cleveland. Delegates include Charlton Myers, chairman-elect of the Marion county chapter, and Mrs. Myers, Miss Lillian Plack, executive secretary and Mrs. J. H. Harmon. The Junior Red Cross will be represented by four delegates, Beverly Jean Hinton and Donald Klingel from Edison Junior High school, Nancy Jill Pluchel from Vernon Heights Junior High school and Agnes Hildebrandt from Central Junior High school. A number of other members plan to attend one or more sessions throughout the week.

Far-reaching changes in the organizational structure of the organization setting up a new governing board of 50 members of which 30 are to be elected by chapter delegates at the convention will be a part of the convention business. Nearly 6,000 delegates from the United States as well as representatives from foreign countries will attend.

Red Cross charter changes, recently passed by Congress, are the first since 1905. Convention action to implement these changes and to amend outmoded bylaws will establish greater local chapter participation in determining future Red Cross national programs and policies.

Cleveland's Public Hall, with its auditorium seating 10,221 and many smaller rooms suitable for conference sessions, is the scene of the 1947 convention. A varied and colorful program, with speakers of national and international reputation, symphony and choral music, displays and exhibits, has been arranged. The convention keynote will be the Red Cross theme: "Under which all men may serve."

Opening Monday morning, June 9, the series of general sessions, forums, and conferences of service groups and standing committees will continue through Thursday noon. Red Cross Chairman Basil O'Connor will preside at the opening plenary session and convention delegates will be welcomed by Governor Thomas J. Herbert of Ohio, and Albert M. Higley, chairman of the Greater Cleveland Red Cross chapter.

For the "International Night" program Tuesday evening, Red Cross representatives from many countries have been invited including Peru, Chile, and Puerto Rico, Russia, The Netherlands, Iceland, Hawaii, Guam, Canal Zone, the Philippines and others.

In 1945 the average American family owned $4,000 of life insurance.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of traditional white satin and sheer marquisette, fashioned with a modified keyhole neckline trimmed in seed pearls and bugle beads. The basque bodice was of satin and the long tightly-fitted sleeves ended in points over the wrists. The full marquisette skirt extended into a long train. Her bridal veil of illusion, which ended in a long train, was held in place with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white rose buds.

Maid of honor was Miss Patricia Youngblood, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids were Miss Marguerite Roberts of Detroit, Mich., Miss Frances Dillon of Columbus, Miss Joan Balderson of Norwalk, Va., and Miss Ruth Vail of Marion. Miss Youngblood was attired in a pale blue chiffon gown and wore a halo of flowers in her hair with a shoulder length blue veil. Her bouquet was of yellow carnations. The bridesmaids' gowns were of marquisette, and two were attired in pale pink and two in pale green. Each wore a hat of matching net trimmed with satin ribbon streamers and apple blossoms, and carried a colonial bouquet.

The flower girl, Miss Regina Jaeger of Columbus, wore a dress of cotton mesh lace fashioned with a square neckline, puffed sleeves, a tyrolean style bodice with satin lacing, and a full skirt of tiered ruffles. Her fingertip veil of white illusion was trimmed with orange blossoms and she carried a colonial bouquet.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mrs. M. W. Kline of 291 Thew avenue, was Richard Drollinger. Ushers were Gene Negley, Richard Barnhart, Howard Williams and Paul Arndt, all of Marion. The candles on the altar were lighted by Miss Phyllis Yuzel and Miss Sally Youngblood of Marion.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Youngblood chose an aqua jersey dress with which she combined gold accessories. Her corsage was of yellow rosebuds. Mrs. Kline was attired in an aqua and pansy combination jersey dress with white accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of purple baby iris and white carnations.

A reception was held at Greenwood Inn immediately following the ceremony. Serving were Miss Joan Williams of Columbus, and Miss Lucille Blackford and Miss Pauline Dusang of Marion. When the couple left on a wedding trip, Mrs. Kline was wearing a light blue suit with white eyelet accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The bride's gifts to her maid of honor and bridesmaids were pearls and to the flower girl, a gold bracelet. The bridegroom gave his best man and ushers cigaret lighters.

Congressman's Voting Record Obscured—Planned That Way

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, June 8 — The voting record of your senator or representative isn't easy to get.

Congress isn't showing any signs of making it easier although Rep. Hale Boggs, Louisiana Democrat, has offered a bill to do just that.

James Marlow

The bill went to a committee, then to a subcommittee, for consideration which hasn't started. And this session of congress is almost over.

The bill, if it became law, would do this:

By writing to the Congressional Library, any newspaper editor or group of 10 or more citizens could get any congressman's voting record free.

(Boggs said he made it a group of 10 or more citizens just to prevent some individual "crackpot" from bothering the librarians.)

Can't Get It Now

The Congressional Library now keeps a record of every congressman's voting and gives it to him at the end of the year—but just his own. You, as a citizen or editor, couldn't write to the library and get your congressman's record.

Not even a congressman can get from the library the voting record of any other congressman. The library won't give it to him.

How then can you, a private citizen, get a record of your congressman's votes? Here are three ways:

1. You can write, but must pay for the service, to a private Washington organization which keeps such records.

2. If your local library has it, you can search through the Congressional Record of each day's work in congress. That's a gigantic task.

3. You can look up the files of your local newspapers. Papers which print votes in congress generally use only those on major issues.

Congress Stopped Information

Why don't the Congressional Library give even a congressman the voting record of another congressman? There's no law against it.

This writer asked top people in the Library, and, in brief, got this answer:

"We did it until 1942. Then congress or, rather, the appropriations committee of the house, indicated strongly it wanted us to stop doing it."

In 1940 a house member ran against a senator, for the latter's seat, and defeated him.

The house member got the senator's voting record from the Library and the senator got the house member's record the same way.

Use Record in Campaign

They used those records in the campaign. Two years later members of the appropriations committee remembered that campaign.

When the librarian, Dr. Luther Evans, went up before them to talk about money for the Library, the record shows he was told this:

The money congressmen vote for running the library shouldn't be used for gathering information (voting records) to be "used against" them.

A committee member further said that if the Library kept this up "you will find it embarrassing to you some of these days."

Right there the library quit giving even a congressman another congressman's voting record.

LEGISLATURE ENTERS WORK HOME STRETCH

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 7—The 97th Ohio general assembly began a weekend recess today in preparation for its final week's work of the current session which started Jan. 6.

When legislators return Monday night, they will remain through Saturday to pass as many pending laws as possible before quitting.

A skeleton session will be conducted June 18 to sign bills but sine die adjournment will not be taken until June 30 to give Gov. Thomas J. Herbert time to sign approved measures.

During an extra day's session yesterday, the senate passed a bill proposing creation of a new state department of natural resources to unify state conservation activities.

The department would be composed of seven divisions with the present conservation division becoming the wildlife section. An attempt to have the present division transplanted into the wildlife section as an autonomous division failed and it will be under authority of the new director if the measure is enacted.

The house passed a senate measure providing for a special $5 deer hunting permit whenever an open season on the animals is declared but defeated another senate bill to permit hunting on farmers' land with verbal, instead of "written" permission as now required.

Up for consideration in the senate Monday will be measures to allow cities to condemn land for urban redevelopment, and to allow county commissioners to zone unincorporated areas in counties and townships for residence and business.

The house will act on a measure sponsored by the senate special liquor investigating committee providing that various permits held by taverns expire on the same date, instead of separately as at present.

Did Taft Make Prices High?

THE WHITE HOUSE is beating another tattoo on Senator Taft's high forehead, this time because it says he's in favor of high prices. Politics being what it is, Taft has to grin and bear this because Mr. Truman has to pretend to shift the blame to someone, to keep from getting it himself.

But Senator Taft or President Truman didn't cause high prices. A condition caused them. Politicians, businessmen, professional people, wage earners—everybody who asked a little more then he'd been getting before had a hand in it. About the only people not sharing the blame are pensioners and investors; they're taking it in the neck.

Mr. Truman, a politician first, last and always, has decided to play politics with prices. His strategy is to make it appear that some particular minority—greedy businessmen—should get all the blame. It's a throwback to the old "New Deal" malarkey that consisted of blaming businessmen for everything.

It wouldn't be good politics for Mr. Truman to be realistic and indict human nature, instead of businessmen; too many toes would be trampled on. But that's where the indictment belongs. Most people with something to sell will charge all they can get for it, and nothing much can be done about it. Everybody wants lower prices, but they're always the prices the other fellow is charging.

No one wants a boom and a bust, contrary to Mr Truman's ingenious little stunt to make it look as if Taft prayed for that very thing every night. But on the other hand, no one wants to quit making hay while the sun is shining—and to show who's included it's only necessary to recall that President Truman himself has been squawking about proposals to cut down the high price of government. He wants everything else cut down, but not government. You other fellows are greedy, the White House argues, but the government needs all it can get. Ho, hum.

As of June 1947

SECRETARY OF STATE MARSHALL'S address to the Harvard Alumni Association contained a valuable outline of United States foreign policy.

"For the past 10 years," he said, speaking of Europe, "conditions have been highly abnormal. The feverish preparation for war and the more feverish maintenance of the war effort engulfed all aspects of national economics...The breakdown of the business structure was complete. Recovery has been seriously retarded by the fact that two years after the close of hostilities a peace settlement with Germany and Austria has not been agreed upon...Our policy is directed not against any country or doctrine but against hunger, poverty, desperation and chaos. Its purpose should be the revival of a working economy in the world so as to permit the emergence of political and social conditions in which free institutions can exist...The initiative should come from Europe...The role of this country should consist of friendly aid in the drafting of a European program and of later support of such a program so far as it may be practical for us to do. The program should be a joint one, agreed to by a number, if not all European nations."

Chaos is the enemy of free institutions. The United States will try to overcome chaos and the friends of chaos, to preserve free institutions. In so doing it must preserve itself from chaos at home, as well as abroad.

Ready for the Ballot

FINALLY ready for the November ballot is the Ohio veterans' bonus referendum. Senate-house conference eliminated several provisions, one of which would have excluded payments to veterans with rank of major or higher. Also ruled out were an extra penny-a-pack tax on cigarets and allocation of $25,000,000 from operating revenues for bonus payments.

To raise the necessary $300,000,000, the legislature decided on a statewide real estate levy of 75 cents per $1,000 and a monthly allocation of $1,000,000 from state revenues.

Thus the legislature lives up to its promise to pass the bonus decision along to the voters. It is about as equitable a bill as can be drawn. The operating budget is unaffected and payments are to be made regardless of rank. From here on it's a matter for the voters to decide.

Contempt Beyond Words

A SHANGHAI dispatch reports the city has formed a committee to investigate un-Chinese activities.

If the committee's investigations proceed along American lines, they will be something like this: Everyone questioned will protest his great, undying love for China; when a subpoena is issued for the head of an organization with some such grandiose title as "The Militant Friends of Chinese Democracy," that individual will refuse to give his real name and ask to read a statement before being sworn in. Then he will be cited for contempt. And that will be the end of the case.

War's Effect on Science

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Conflict Is Blight, Not Boost, to Progress.

IN the same week which brought the news of more and more disasters in air transportation, there came to this desk the annual report of the Rockefeller Foundation. A major theme in that report is the direful effect of war on the advancement of science. President Raymond B. Fosdick says:

"Nothing that war touches escapes blight. There is a popular belief that science made rapid progress between 1939 and 1945, but this belief has little basis for support. It is now generally recognized that the feverish activity of scientists in war time is essentially not scientific. They are primarily engaged in the application of existing knowledge to certain specific and narrow problems. They have no time for pure research, and their contributions to basic knowledge are infrequent and on the whole unimportant. They are drawing on the reserves of the past. They are using up the supply of basic discoveries which an earlier generation has given them. They are digging recklessly into the stock pile of existing knowledge. The gap between knowledge and use in science is always narrow; the effect of war is to close the gap almost to the vanishing point."

The tragic proof of this is in the burned bodies and twisted metal of last week's wrecked aircraft. In no field did there seem to be greater progress during the war than in the air. Newer and newer designs appeared in bewildering succession. Faster and faster speed was developed. Instruments for the improvements of flying appeared in endless numbers. Production exceeded the wildest dreams of the industry. The mysteries of weather observation and prediction seemed to be conquered.

But in the task of bringing all this mechanical development into the peaceful services of men something seems to have been lost. Has the machine outrun the capacity of human intelligence to control it? Has the narcotic of progress tempted men into reckless adventure? Can the arts of destruction, in which human lives are help cheap, ever serve the needs of peace, in which human life is the most valued of our possessions?

One of the wrecks involved getting a plane off the ground. The place was one of the most magnificently appointed air ports in the world. Presumably, the scientific weather instruments were of the best. The design of the runways and the field was carried out by trained men. The operating personnel was experienced.

But an after-the-fact controversy rages over the accuracy of weather observations, over the adequacy of the runways and over the judgment of the operators. Was the ship itself designed to carry so great a load? And are the government's facilities adequate to protect the interests of the public in such instances? Was there sufficient inspection?

No Clear Answer Yet.

No clear answer seems to be forthcoming. Merely to say that a sudden change in the wind was a natural freak which could not be foreseen is to deny the basic claims of science. For science is man's means of anticipating and circumventing nature.

Perhaps we would do better if we did not try to find so many justifications in war. We accepted war as necessary for survival. And then we tried to find too many wholesome by-products in the business of killing and destroying. And we lost our good judgment in our delusions.

Fortunately, the President's Advisory Commission on Universal Training avoided a familiar delusion in its report. It did not try to disguise military training as a sort of super-education. It did not deny the cost in lost years to the boys within the service ages. It stated clearly that the program recommended was a high but necessary price for national safety.

We shall do well if we recognize that the years of war were lost years; that their cost was irreparable; that we shall be paying for them a long time in our standards of living; and that we must learn all over the arts of peace.

The G.O.P. Could Use a Man Like This One

An Indian manufacturer advertises a "brain tonic" guaranteed to "end baldness, increase memory, insure eyesight, impart sound sleep, remove gray hair, stop falling hair and relieve dandruff."

Apparently the manufacturer has another formula which he recommends for leprosy, chilblains and housemaid's knee.

This is an age of specialization. No longer do itinerant medical men offer remedies to cure anything, including the purchaser's credulity.

Time was when the list of ailments for which a medicine was "recommended" was limited solely by imagination and the size of the label.

But that is a thing of the past. The one-bottle medicine cabinet has gone the way of the moustache cup and twelve-button shoes.

A modern citizen would no more think of relying on the same remedy for sciatica and athlete's foot than he would of driving with a midiron or wearing a morning coat in the afternoon.

This is an age of specialization and the era of curealls is ended ....except, of course, in campaign years, when the formula is still applied to political platforms.

British in Another 'Finest Hour'

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE prime minister, Mr. Attlee, and the viceroy, Lord Mountbatten, have done a service to all mankind by showing what statesmen can do, not with force or with money, but with lucidity, reason, imagination, resolution, sincerity and good will. The world needed desperately a demonstration of this kind to renew men's faith in the power of the human spirit.

It will be said, I know, that it is too soon to say such things, that we must wait and see, and that the troubles of India are just beginning. All that is, I submit, beside the point. Mt. Atlee does not profess to have solved the problem of India. He has, on the contrary, accepted wholly, without reservation or equivocation, the principle and the fact that the problems of India cannot be solved by British statesmen, that they must be solved by the Indians.

What Mr. Atlee set himself to do was to solve the British problem in India, which was how to liquidate the empire and transfer its authority to the Indians. As far as Britain is concerned, he has solved this problem. It is not, I think, premature to say that he has solved it. For having gotten the recognized leaders of India to agree on the time and the terms of the transfer of authority, on when the British Empire in India is to end and who in India are to be its successors, the problems of India became the sole responsibility of the Indians.

Reason for Success

The prime minister and the viceroy have succeeded because they saw clearly what they wanted. They did not make British withdrawal depend on an agreement among the Indians on the constitutional structure of India or on its international position. If they had, they would never have withdrawn, and, as all the factions of India would have sought to exploit their presence there would never have been agreement among the Indians.

All that Mr. Atlee sought was agreement among the Indians as to who would take over authority when the British withdrew. The fact that they really mean to withdraw, and that they mean to do so very soon, left the Indian factions with the choice of agreeing to let the Hindus take over where they predominate, or of promoting a civil war of conquest.

Mr. Atlee did not partition India. He got the Indians to agree to let those Indians who are the de facto rulers, wherever they happen to be, take over the power that Britain is relinquishing.

He insisted not on the unity of India, or the democratization of India, or on anything else but that the Indians who actually rule the various parts of India should severally and jointly accepted independence from Great Britain. They have struggled for independence. Mt. Atlee has not merely granted it. He has insisted that they accept it, so to speak, unconditionally in the sense that Britain is free of any commitment to give power to any Indian anywhere he does not in fact already possess it.

Act Commands Respect

Thus Mr. Attlee has observed both the principles of national liberty and the realities of power, and has used them to reinforce each other. They are actually at odds in this world except at those rare moments in history when men have been able to rise to great statesmanship and resolve problems that to their lower natures and meaner minds are forever insoluble.

Perhaps Britain's finest hours are not in the past. Certainly this performance is not the work of a decadent people. This, on the contrary, is a work of political genius requiring the ripest wisdom and the freshest vigor and it is done with a elegance and a style that will compel and will receive an instinctive respect throughout the civilized world.

UN's Agencies

So much has been said and written about the over-all activities of the United Nations that the eight specialized agencies comprising its constructive adjuncts have come in for little mention.

These agencies are the International Labor Organization, the Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization ((Unesco), the Food and Agricultural Organization, the International Civil Aviation Organization, the International Monetary Fund, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the World Health Organization interim commission and the International refugee Organization preparatory commission. All are either linked with or plan affiliation with the UN.

Only three nations, the United States, Great Britain and Canada are members of all the agencies.

Social Notes from All Over

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, June 7. — Mr. Andrei Vishinsky, of the Russian foreign office, is currently taking the waters at Carlsbad, the famous Czechoslovakian spa. His boss, Mr. V. M. Molotov, is believed to be visiting Belgrade. Mr. George Tatarescu, Rumanian foreign minister, has paid a call on the American diplomatic mission in Bucharest. These social snippets, taken together with other evidence, add up to an interesting probability. That is simply that the Kremlin's coup in Hungary is only part of a process which has been going on for a long time, and which will shortly come to a head elsewhere.

It is most likely to come to a head in Rumania first. When Mr. Tatarescu approached the American mission, he sent out a tentative feeler. He wanted to know whether, when the worst came to the worst, the Americans would help him fly the coop. The American mission was of course disappointingly unresponsive, not only because American diplomats abroad do not indulge in this sort of hankey pankey, but because the Americans would have nothing to do with Tatarescu at any price. Yet the twitchiness which obviously lay behind Tatarescu's feeler is significant.

Tatarescu's twitchiness is undoubtedly justified. He is certainly one of the cleverest and most agile political acrobats in eastern Europe, which is saying a good deal. Throughout the war he collaborated busily and profitably with the Nazis, and his name automatically stood high in the list of war criminals.

It was removed soon after the war on the insistence of the Russians. They have made good use of him. But he has had long practice at sniffing the political wind, and his sniffs now evidently suggest to him that the jig is up.

Orders from Moscow.

The jig began to be up early this spring when Mr. Tatarescu's colleague, Mr. Gheorphiu - Dej, Communist minister of trade and industry, made a trip to Moscow. According to reliable reports, he returned with instructions to begin the process of taking over complete control of the Rumanian government. This process started on March 10, when the mass arrests of non-Communists began. Some 2,000 people have now been arrested without charge, and thrown into jail. Descriptions of conditions in the jails have been carefully circulated—the 500-calory ration, the sickness, the rats and the overcrowding, the frequent deaths—to discourage the independent-minded.

The process will end, if the instructions received by Mr. Dej are correctly reported, by the elimination of such unreliable and no longer useful decorations as Mr. Tatarescu, Mr. Petru Groza, the premier, and possibly Michael, Rumania's young king.

The king may well be retained as a useful figure. Yet last May Day there was one of those unpleasant little straws in the wind which affect the pulses of non-Communist politicians in Russian-dominated countries. During the May Day parade, the portraits of Groza and Michael which had previously flanked the heroic posters of Stalin and the rest of the Kremlin heirarchy were noticeably absent.

One symptom of the conditions which made it necessary for Mr. Dej to receive his new instructions occurred at the Rumanian E. T. A. textile works in Arad, on April 26. That morning the textile workers arrived in a body, determined to demand their bread rations, which they had not received in some days. When the rations were not forthcoming the workers killed the local Communist leader and one other Communist. Then they went to the local Communist headquarters in the town, killed the caretaker, and destroyed the building.

Unrest Among Masses.

This episode was only the most dramatic and overt evidence of the seething discontent of the masses of the people. There has been plenty of other evidence such as the vote last November. The Communists thought they had it thoroughly rigged, but rigging and all, the anti-Communist vote was so heavy that the figures had to be feverishly juggled before they could be published. Yet the fact that the Arad episode involved workers, on whom the Communists rely for what support they have, was significant. A number of workers have thus been included in the recent indiscriminate arrests, to encourage the others.

At any rate, the closest observers of the Rumanian scene are inclined to the view that the Kremlin has decided that the tattered facade of the Groza government is no longer enough for their purposes, and that something a great deal tougher, on the Hungarian model, must be substituted.

Few Gems in Ohio

Gem prospectors will find very slim pickings in Ohio, according to a booklet called "The Gem Hunter's Guide," just published by Science & Mechanics Publishing Co. of Chicago.

About all Ohio soil has yielded are opal and flint in the vicinity of Zanesville. Flint is of little value now, except in cigaret lighters, but opal of good quality brings a fair price.

Ohio's gem yield is about as small as any state's, even little Rhode Island doing better, with agate, amethyst, quartz and cats-eye. Arkansas has diamond mines and a 20-carat diamond was found in Virginia. A diamond also was found near Milford, O., for which no ad ever appeared in the lost and found columns. Geologists doubt it was native stone, though, and believe a glacier brought it down from Canada. Got it across the border without paying duty, too.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Yachting Season

The yachting season is on. A yacht is anything that leaks and rolls. Yachting was once strictly the hobby of the upper classes. It is now the diversion of the classes on their uppers. It is formerly the sport of the rich. Today anybody who can shake up a drink at an angle of 45 degrees is eligible.

Our yacht clubs are now so crowded they have three-decker rockers for the rocking chair fleet. And there are so many boats at the mooring that a man can walk ashore from boat to boat and bottle to bottle.

The membership are so full that the commodore has to revive that old one, "I don't recognize your name, but your breath is familiar."

June is the month when the yachtsman begins to make up for all the scraping, sandpapering and painting he did through March, April and May. He has now plugged up the leaks and can spend a month worrying over when they will reopen.

There are three main classes of yachtsmen

1—The fellow who has an authentic Masefield touch, can read a chart, knows you don't wind up a compass and can be depended on to make port.

2—The fellow who is just a country clubber who wants to try the life out on salt water.

3—The lad who went to the motorboat show and thought every thing would turn out the way it said in the catalogues.

The first thing you have to do when you get a boat is to join a yacht club. You can have a auto and not join an auto club, own a horse and not belong to a trotting association, or invest in a plane and not become a member of an aeronautical society. But if you have a yacht you must join a yacht club. Why? So you can fly a pennant, run up a bar bill and charge the ice.

To be a yachtsman you have to have charts. A chart is a roadmap under permanent flood conditions.

Another necessity is a compass. A compass is a cross between a clock and a roulette wheel. It can get you into more trouble than either.

But it is a "must." Without it a yachtsman can never be sure of getting lost. You have to have a ship's clock, too. It strikes the wrong numbers, thus accentuating the mood of never being sure about anything, except the odor of gas.

And, oh yes, a special marine lexicon. A kitchen at sea is a galley. The Bedroom is a cabin. Downstairs is "below." Windows are portholes. But gin is gin, ten payments are ten payments and an upset stomach is an upset stomach, which simplifies it slightly.

Ahoy! A sailor's life is the life for us! Whatever happens our investment won't get all scratched up in one of those parking lots.

Feeling low?
Trust your Joe!

A Long Island community has permitted the building of veterans' homes without cellars for $7,000. For another thousand we understand they can get 'em without roofs.

A Communist is a man who asks you for $1,000 while denouncing money and calls you a dirty capitalist if he gets it.

A college has opened a course for traffic policemen and for prosecutors and judges in traffic courts. The college yell, as we get it, is:

Razzle dazzle, razzle dazzle,
Sis' Boom! Bah!
Over to the curb, kid!
Rah! Rah! Rah!

We trust that following the graduation exercises no cop or judge goes through a red light. And we suppose a really apt pupil becomes a Phi Beta Trappa man.

There's Hope

By TRUMAN TWILL

Young Henry Ford has let word leak out that the well-known line of struggle-buggies he is in charge of will be changed next year—as radically as the switch from Model T to Model A.

This is the best news to come out of the automobile business since the self-starter. Some radical switching is overdue, not just in young Henry's line, but in all lines. What the American public wants in automobiles is more attention to the American public.

Whatever may have been wrong with the old-fashioned struggle-buggies, a grown man could sit inside of the things without having his hat smashed down over his eyes and ears. A woman less than 103 and in reasonable condition could get in and out of one without posing for a horror series of candid snapshots to illustrate a Sunday supplement blurb on "What No Lady Ever Does."

A driver who got hung up at the far corner of hell's half acre with an empty tank or a flat tire had a fighting chance to extricate himself from his dilemma without depending on the mercy of a rescue expedition payable at rates of $5 a rescue and upward. He knew where to look for the jack and where to pour in a slug of gas.

There was condescension to the well-known fact most automobile owners have neither the fortune nor the inclination to support a lot of mechanics in the style to which they are accustomed and to the fact many owners actually get pleasure out of tinkering with their cars, the same as they formerly did out of taking personal charge of the comfort and happiness of their driving horses.

It wasn't assumed that what the public wanted was something flossed up like a combination gum machine and juke box, to catch the eye and the dirt. It was assumed that gum-machine-juke-box decor was for those who liked that sort of thing.

Furthermore, the idea then was to sell more and more transportation for less and less folding money, whereas for lo these many years—and especially now—the idea is to sell more and more bright work for more and more machine, the transportation is incidental.

The automobile started out as a luxury, then was converted into a necessity by trimming it down to the size of the little man's pocketbook and now has wound up in the luxury class again. They've flossed it up for suckers and easy-money customers. Could be they've outwitted themselves by overestimating the sucker and easy-money market for the long pull. Could be that the first manufacturer to hit the road with something an ordinary customer can get there and back in, with no juke-box trimmings to fall off or rattle, will make a killing. Could be that the first manufacturer to take into consideration the dimensions and creature-comforts of the human race will make a killing, too. Who knows, there's someone willing to take a chance, there's hope.

Read Today's Advice On Careful Selection and Use of Your Home Site

YOUR HOME TODAY AND TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

When you buy a piece of property on which to build a home, you will find that it has certain physical advantages an disadvantages. If you have been careful in your selection, you will no doubt have definite ideas about the actual placing of the building on the site, and about the exposure of the various rooms. If you have been careless in selecting the plot, you may have a job ahead of you to make it satisfactory. Every owner of undeveloped property should consider the fact that at times it is better to dispose of it without trying to build, rather than to invest more money and struggle with a proposition which is obviously unsatisfactory at the beginning.

Consider All Points

Providing that the general location, grade and condition of your lot are satisfactory according to normal standards, your first step should be to locate your house so that you get the benefit of every advantage it offers If you want the sun in the dining room in the morning, or the afternoon sun in the living room, you must place your house so as to provide it. If the outlook from the front of your property is not too good, you should arrange to have the living room and the terrace or porch across the rear of the house, where you can control the planting and landscaping to suit yourself Nobody ever has control of the public street or road on which the average house faces.

The usual cause of dissatisfaction with a building site comes from lack of frontage, or a too narrow lot. When you a have a 50 foot wide lot, and 35-foot front house, there is not much left to work with, particularly when you have to conform to the average setback restrictions which prevail in the properly administered villages, cities and towns. As a result, you must either have enough room in which to bulid the house you want and have sufficient space on both sides to insure privacy, or you must acquire more space. If you cannot buy additional property as an after-thought, or enough property in the first place, you will be better off to sell your holdings and build in another location.

Profit by Experience

The record is full of instances in which people have bought building sites while the location was still in the development stage, and where they found themselves sandwiched in between other houses by the time they were ready to build their own home The chief difficulty with this kind of a situation is that if you do not like the condition, others will probably not like it either.

When you buy a building site be sure that you have enough room. Make sure of your property lines, and do not be deceived by the fact that the entire area is undeveloped and open looking. If other houses are already built around the lot in which you are interested, see how you can take advantage of the location of those houses and secure privacy and room for yourself. If the house on one side is far off to your left, take advantage of that fact and locate your own home as close to your left line as you can, and vice versa. Build well back from the street or road, and do not be anxious to be a dozen steps from the curb line Any old-time property owner will tell you that there is always more privacy in the rear than there is in the front.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Piping for Hot Water Heat

Q. Will a hot water heating system, using a circulation pump, function with the supply and exhaust pipes smaller than the same system without the pump?

A. A hot-water, house-heating system, equipped with a circulator pump and an expansion tank in the basement, will function more efficiently with smaller pipes and radiators because of the more rapid circulation of the water at higher temperature

Thick, Rusty Hot Water

Q Our water supply seems clean enough when cold, but when we heat it with the coal-stove type of water heater or furnace, which is a hot water system, we have thick, rusty water that can hardly get down the drain. I've drained the hot-water tank by opening the valve at the bottom and letting the water run until clear. I run the tub and sink faucets until clear, still it happens again next wash day Just how can I flush and clean my tank and pipes?

A. A common cause for dirty hot water is overheating. The higher the temperature to which water is heated, the more likely it is to be dirty. Water at a temperature of 130 degrees is sufficiently hot for household uses You say you have drained the storage tank, but have you drained the rust out of the water heating stove? It is possible that the storage tank is badly rusted and should be replaced with one of copper or monel, if you can get one. There is a chemical compound now available which can be used to arrest corrosion It is used in a special type of container that is installed in the cold-water supply pipe. For the name and address of the maker of this unit, write to the Architects Samples Exhibit, 101 Park Avenue, New York City 17.

Waxed Oak Woodwork

Q. How can I remove wax from oak woodwork before refinishing with ivory colored paint? Should I apply aluminum paint before the ivory?

A. Remove the wax by wiping with turpentine and steel wool. If the woodwork has not been stained, aluminum paint will not be necessary. Mahogany stain should be bleached out, other stains can be given a coat of aluminum paint. Follow with enamel undercoater and finish with enamel.

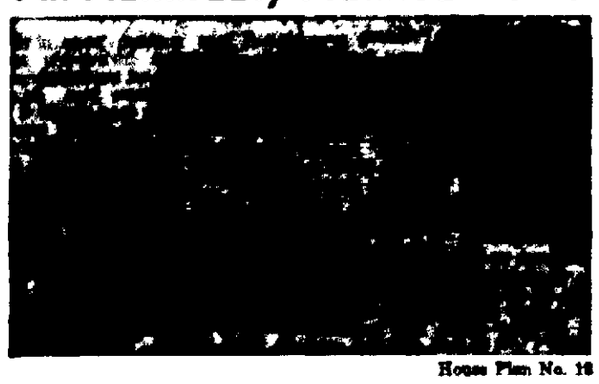
Condensation on Windows

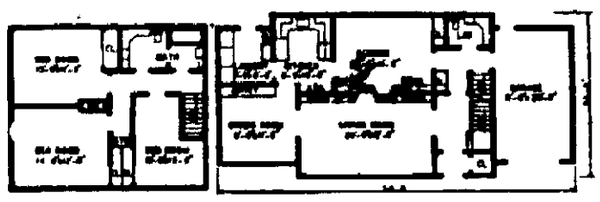
Q. In cold weather, water forms on the steel frame of our casement windows and runs down, making a great deal of trouble for me. Can you give me any suggestion for correcting this condition?

A. Storm sash would help very much. The manufacturers of casements generally make storm sash for their windows, usually to be placed on the inside.

An Admirably Planned Home



House Plan No. 18



This is a house to dream about, but it fits into realism too, because by careful planning it has achieved graciousness and spaciousness, and although it is comparatively small, the dual purpose rooms will perform feats of magic when called upon

It was designed for Practical Builder, Chicago 5, Ill., by Mrs. Anne Richards Baskin, Lowell, Mass., and in it she has incorporated the things that make a woman's dream house.

Her kitchen is as modern as a ship's galley—streamlined completely. It leads into the family lounge which is made for dining informally, and later used for card games, studying, etc "I want a roaring fire in the stone fireplace in winter, and built-in cabinets for magazines, books and radio But for company, Mrs Baskin says, "I want a more formal living-dining room with glamour. It will have a fireplace built back to back with the one in the lounge room. It should also have a picture window and be "L" shaped, with the dining end separated by either a curtain, sliding door, built-in parapet or flower box. Sliding doors also separate laundry and kitchen

"Tiny downstairs powder room is a must, so is a guest closet and vestibule." Bathroom is departmentized, and complete with built-ins Storage walls and biult-ins are found in every nook and corner

Working plans for this home are not available, but your local builder or architect can duplicate for you be placed in solitary confinement to "reflect upon what you have done."

Hoffer from the witness stand had testified that he had beaten Mrs. Anderson the night she died, but maintained throughout that he had not killed her.

His defense had entered pleas of innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. Dr. R. E. Bushong, Lima State hospital superintendent, testified yesterday that he considered Hoffer legally sane now and at the time of the killing. Dr. Bushong's assistant, Dr. L. O. Dillon, testified that Hoffer had a mental age of ten years and eight months.

Grins at Father

At the trial's end, Hoffer was led from the courtroom manacled to the wrist of Sheriff Roe Francis. On the way out he grinned at his father, Robert S. Hoffer, and playfully punched him in the stomach.

Mrs. Dorothy Renner Palm of Mansfield, a former Newark girl, who had testified she was the mother of the convicted slayer's four-year-old son, remained in the courtroom until the verdict was announced. She smiled at Hoffer when he turned about after hearing the sentence.

The jury reached its verdict only 47 minutes after Judge Belt, a Belmont county jurist who had been appointed to try the case, summoned the panel to the courtroom to inquire about the lengthy deliberations. At the time, Donaldson reported the jury "evenly divided."

Judge Belt asked that the deliberations be climaxed "amicably and quickly" before sending the jurors back to reach their ultimate verdict.

Bulgarian Oppositionist Not Surprised at Arrest

By The Associated Press

SOFIE, Bulgaria, June 7 — Opposition leader Nikolai Dimitrow Petkov, accused of plotting against Bulgaria's Communist-led government, today saw his arrest as "nothing but a prolongation of what already has happened in Hungary."

Petrov, secretary of the opposition Agrarian party, who was jailed yesterday, gave his interpretation to reporters on his way to his cell. He said he had been expecting to be arrested. Petkov, a national assembly deputy, was taken into custody after the assembly voted to deprive him of parliamentary immunity.

Vladimir Topencharov, government press bureau head, also likened events here to those in Hungary. He said Petkov's acts had been "similar to those of the Hungarian conspirators" and spoke of "a political link between the Hungarian conspiracies and the Bulgarian ones," adding that this link was "not organizational."

COLUMBUS OFFICIALS PROBE GIRL'S DEATH

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 7—Dr. John B. Gravis, Franklin county coroner ruled today that a 24-year-old Fairfield county secretary, found dead in a downtown hotel room last night, died from the effects of an attempted illegal operation.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 7—Dr. John B. Gravis and Columbus police probed today the death of a comely 20-year-old Fairfield county girl whose body was found in a room at the Southern hotel here last night.

Capt. Joseph Tibe of the police homicide detail reported the girl had been identified as Miss Mabel Hoffman, secretary to the superintendent of schools at Pleasantville, O.

Captain Tibe said the girl's sister, Mrs. Ruth Hammond, 29, Mt. Vernon, and Miss Izetta Simpson, 56, Greenville, O., were being held for investigation as material witnesses.

The two women found the body of Miss Hoffman, the captain said.

Captain Tibe told this story:

Miss Hoffman met her sister and Miss Simpson in Columbus yesterday afternoon. The two sisters visited a physician's office and then returned to the downtown hotel where Miss Simpson had registered.

Police said Miss Hoffman declined to have dinner with the other two, saying she would remain in the hotel room.

Two and one-half hours late, the captain related, Mrs. Hammond and Miss Sompson returned and found the dead girl.

Mrs. Hammond, police said, declared her sister's purse containing $200 was missing from the room when they returned. She said it was in the room when they left.

Miss Simpson was listed by police as an accountant.

purify their city water before drinking it, also sought to get everyone to undergo typhoid vaccination.

Special facilities for mass vaccination were set up and chemists began immediate analyses of water from all eight of the city's waterwork wells.

At least two, said Commissioner Tonney, were flooded as rain fell steadily throughout the night.

Hundreds of Mansfield basements were flooded, power and telephone lines put out of commission and a railroad bridge was washed out.

U. S. 30-south between Mansfield and Galion was impassable most of the night with water running across the route at several points. Six feet of water stood most of the night in a downtown pedestrian subway.

Thousands Left Homeless in Four States by Flood

Thousands were left temporarily homeless in parts of four midwest states today as surging waters of rivers and streams spilled out over farm lands, washed out railroad tracks and flooded highways. Tornadoes struck in four other states last night, causing extensive property damage.

While the peril of serious floods threatened in southeast Nebraska, southwest Iowa, northwest Missouri and northeast Kansas, tornadoes hit communities in Illinois, Colorado, Oklahoma and Missouri last night destroying several homes. There were no fatalities.

The twisters which struck at Champaign, Ill., and Julesburg, Colo., caused heavy damage. In the Illinois city, home of the University of Illinois, more than two score houses were destroyed or damaged, with a loss estimated at $200,000. At Julesburg, the Union Pacific railroad yards were damaged and the station nearly demolished.

A tornado also hit a rural area near Chester, Okla., demolishing a farm home, while several houses were damaged in two summer resorts near Excelsior Springs, Mo., by a twister.

The rapidly rising Des Moines river forced several thousand residents in southeastern Iowa to evacuate their homes, including more than 4,000 in Ottumwa, which was without electric power and had only a meager reserve of water for its 30,000 residents.

At Ottumwa flood waters crept higher and spread over the business district. The city's power plant was put out of operation after a wall developed a leak.

More than 6,500 residents in other southern Iowa communities were driven from their homes and hundreds of head of livestock were feared lost as flood waters spread over the lowlands.

MURDERS

O., drowned her two sons, Billy, 4, and Bobby, eight months, in a cistern at the rear of her parent's home late last night, then took her own life by lowering herself into the water beside them.

Coroner B. F. Voorhees said that the woman's husband, James, employed at the Cooper Rubber Co. here, reported that his wife left a note telling him she planned to kill the children and herself to to relievt him of "financial" difficulties.

The coroner ruled death by drowning and "suicide by reason of temporary insanity."

Three Ohio Staters Begin 2,300-Mile Trip by Rowboat

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 7—There was a method in the madness of three young Ohio State university students who began a 2,300-mile rowboat cruise to New Orleans today.

For one thing their skiffs weren't the kind designed not to attract attention. The lads—Richard Howells, 20, Richard Spaeth, 20, and Edmund Rider, 19, all of Columbus—are making the inland waterway junket in rowboats contrived from B-29 airplane belly-tanks, supported with stabilizing pontoons. In the river they look like water-spiders.

By the time the boys navigate the Scioto, Ohio and Mississippi rivers enroute to New Orleans the southern populace could easily mistake the three bronzed Buckeyes and their strange craft for islandic natives form some place like Christmas island in the Pacific.

The trip is being attempted for several reasons, each student voicing his own. Spaeth is going for "the experience" and Rider to obtain subject-matter for those provoking English themes that badger Ohio State students the year-around.

Howells confesses a mercenary motive. "The company that makes the belly-tank boats will pay us a good commission on any we sell in the river towns."

PRACTICAL NURSES URGED FOR MORE MENIAL DUTIES

Association Told Graduates Too Well Educated to Waste.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 7—Today's registered nurse represents too large an investment in costly education to be forced to undertake some of the tasks currently expected of her, the 44th annual meeting of the Ohio State Nurses association was told here.

Miss Josephine Hoover, superintendent of Shelby Memorial hospital, advanced the statement in a plea that practical nurses and nurses' aides be used to perform such chores as bed making, feeding patients, cleaning rooms, and answering patient's signals.

She painted a dark picture for the future of professional nursing unless professional nurses were given freedom to undertake more important duties in hospitals.

Close cooperation between practical and professional nurses was urged yesterday in a talk by Miss Harriet Stambaugh of New York City, chairman of the private duty section of the American Nurses association.

Dr. Susan Souther, chief of the state health department's division of maternity and infancy, said rising birthrates had increased the importance of licensed maternity hospitals.

HAL BOYLE CITED BY GOLD STAR MOTHERS

By The Associated Press

LONG BEACH, Calif., June 7—Hal Boyle, Associated Press columnist, and two other newspapermen have been cited for outstanding war reporting by America's Gold Star mothers, who have chosen Mrs. Anna G. Hagerty of Atlantic City as their new president.

"The fact that he was christened Harold but everyone who knows him calls him 'Hal,' is perhaps the keynote to Hal Boyle's popularity both among the officers and men—and his myriad of readers," read the citation presented to the writer last night at the organization's 10th annual convention.

"Hal Boyle's war reporting for The Associated Press from North Africa and Sicily was an inspiration to millions. He wrote down-to-earth articles that carried his readers into the tight places he went with the men.

"He and The Associated Press are to be congratulated on doing an oustanding job that helped us at home to do our job."

Boyle, in response, told the mothers of the men and women who died in the service:

"It was a privilege to write about your boys, many of whom I knew. I am sorry they are gone."

Similar citations were awarded to Frank Bartholomew, United Press, and Van Atta, International News Service.

Consider Scout Camp Proposal at Meeting

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, June 7—A proposal by Scout Executive Hugh F. Hay and Dr. Robert T. Gray, president of Harding Area Boy Scouts, to divert the Harding area camp from Camp Owens south of Marion to the site at Camp Miachel, southwest of Bucyrus, was considered by the board at a meeting at the local camp Thursday night.

Hay told the board that the move would hinge upon availability of additional land adjacent to the camp. Cost of transforming the camp into the official Harding area Scout camp was estimated by the Scout executive at $100,000 to $150,000. He told the board that the plan was to maintain Camp Owens as an overnight camp for Marion Scouts.

No action was taken by the board.

A 15-year-old Marion boy spent a day and a half in the county detention home because he took his father's auto, according to a report from juvenile court. He was arrested by city police on Uncapher avenue Thursday at about 11 p. m. and sent to the home for investigation. No charges were filed because it was his father's car he was driving.

Race Picture Comes To Ohio

Maureen O'Hara and Cornel Wilde Teamed in Film of Tracks.

A new technicolor hit, "The Homestretch," now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater, stars Maureen O'Hara and Cornel Wilde, teamed on the screen for the first time.

A story of high-riding romance at the world's great racing classics is told in the picture, "The Homestretch." The picture hits all the high spots in racing, boasts some of the most amazing race scenes ever recorded by the camera, and covers action at eleven tracks including one in England and one in South America.

Cornel Wilde is seen in the role of a carefree spendthrift, Jock Wallace, whose one ambition is to own a string of horses that will win the world's top racing classics. Maureen O'Hara plays the role of a quiet and reserved girl who is drawn into the world of race tracks by her love for Cornel Wilde.

An added attraction will be a new March Of Time entitled, "Storm Over Britain." England's crisis is given attention in the film, with the review of events showing the effect of war, the change in government, the severe winter, the failure of both manufacturing and exports to hit the marks set, the lack of manpower, and various other things, all contributing to the present economic predicament.

A double feature, "The Sea Hawk" and "The Sea Wolf," is billed to open Friday and run for seven days.

Both making return engagements, "The Sea Hawk" stars Errol Flynn and features Claude Rains, Brenda Marshall, and Alan Hale, and "The Sea Wolf" stars Edward G. Robinson, Ida Lupino, John Garfield and Barry Fitzgerald.

"The Sea Hawk" is concerned with the intrigue of Spain's King Philip and his henchmen directed against the court and possessions of Queen Elizabeth. Errol Flynn is seen as Goeffrey Thorpe, a daring captain of a buccaneer ship engaged in piratical pursuits against the enemies of England.

The story in "The Sea Wolf" deals with Wolf Larsen, played by Edward G. Robinson, the most feared and most hated captain that ever sailed the high seas. The men who sailed with him on "The Ghost" seldom lived to relate their experiences.

JOE LOUIS

MARVA TROTTER LOUIS

Welcome New Little Heavyweight

Joe Louis, Jr., Another Heavyweight, Bows In

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, June 7—Joe Louis, the world heavyweight boxing champion, has a new son. His name is Joe Louis Jr., and he's a heavyweight too—11½ pounds when he weighed in.

Joe said he hoped the boy, born here May 28, would become a champion fighter.

"If he's as lucky as I am, he will be," said Joe.

Interviewed on a golf course at San Diego, Calif., after the birth was announced here yesterday, Louis disclosed that he and his wife, the former Marva Trotter, were remarried last July in a small Indiana town near Chicago. He couldn't remember the name of the town.

Divorced in 1945

Louis and his wife were divorced in Chicago on March 27, 1945, after nearly 10 years of marriage. They have a daughter Jacqueline, 4.

Joe seemed surprised that the remarriage was news and said he had made no effort to keep it secret.

"As far as Joe and I are concerned," said Mrs. Louis last night, "we never recognized the divorce."

She said she came to Mexico City Feb. 1 when her husband appeared here in an exhibition match with Arturo Godoy of Chile. She said she hadn't seen him since he finished his Central and South American tour, but:

"That's not unusual. He's always in one place and I'm in another. Since were were married we seldom, if ever, had a meal together without from six to a dozen people being around."

Cables News of Birth

She said she sent a cable to Joe telling him of the baby's arrival "and he replied that he would come here as soon as he could." In San Diego, however, the champion said instead that he intended to meet her in Chicago. He said she would fly there as soon as she was able to travel.

Although Mrs. Louis said she named the baby Joe Louis Jr., the nurses at the clinic where he was born just called him "Peso Completo" (heavyweight).

"He has lost a few grams since he was born," said one nurse, "but he's still a big baby. Just look at those hands, and see too, how long he is. He's Peso Completo."

B-W FAVORITE IN O.W.U. FIELD EVENT

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., June 7—Baldwin-Wallace's well-rounded track team, sparked by its ebony speedster, world champion Harrison Dillard, lined up today as favorite to sweep the all-Ohio meet at Ohio Wesleyan's Selby field here.

Besides Dillard, the nation's foremost hurdler, the Yellow Jackets from Berea, O., planned to use Gunthar Katzmar in the sprints. Katzmar finished ahead of Dillard in the 220-yard dash during last week's Ohio conference meet.

Undefeated Quentin Breisford of Ohio Wesleyan and Vince Marotta, Mt. Union sprinter, also were certain to attract attention here. Breisford has not been beaten in either the mile or half-mile events this season, while Marotta recently turned in 9.7 and 21.6 times for the 100-yard and 220-yard sprints.

Other schools competing for the unofficial championship of Buckeye colleges were Ohio university, Cincinnati, Western Reserve, Case, Miami, Bowling Green, Akron, Oberlin, Wooster, Hiram, Toledo, Denison, Muskingum and Capital.

NEWARK WINS NO-HIT GAME

Woolard Drops Muncie Outfit In Six Innings

Packers Fall 8-0 in Short Contest; Zanesville Wins Again.

By The Associated Press

No. 1 boy around the class D Ohio State league today was Newark's lefty Bill Woolard. In one of two league contests played last night he became the circuit's first flinger to turn up a no-hit, no-run victory—despite the fact it came in a rain-interrupted contest of six innings duration.

His victims were the cellar-dwelling Muncie Packers, who lost 8 to 0, the one-sided finish coming through a big seven-run Newark outburst in the fifth inning. The downpour terminated things at the start of the seventh.

3rd for Newark

Woolard likewise is the third Newark pitcher in the last four seasons to notch a no-hitter. Ned Garver performed the feat in 1944 and Carl Schulte last year.

Rain wiped out the Springfield-Lima and Dayton-Marion tilts, but Zanesville's Dodgers continued their winning ways with a 7 to 5 triumph over the Richmond Roses. Dayton held a 4 to 0 lead when rain brought a halt at the end of the fourth at Marion.

Zanesville Squeaks By

In the Zanesville victory, pitcher John Rogan almost lost a decision after hurling two-hit ball for eight innings. A fielder's choice after two were out started things. Then the Roses bagged three straight hits, including pinch hitter Noel Roberts' two-run double before Rogan struck out Lou Tufano to end things with Richmond still two runs short.

Dayton Winning, Burbrink Chased, Rain Saves Cubs

A downpour of rain in the fourth inning at Lincoln park last night came soon enough to save the Marion Cubs from apparent defeat at the hands of the Dayton Indians.

The Indians were leading at the end of the fourth inning 4 to 0. The game would have become official one inning later.

The rain may have saved the Cubs from defeat but it did not save Manager Nelson Burbrink from getting chased from the game in the fourth frame by young umpire Henry McGowan for disputing decisions on balls and strikes.

The banishment carries an automatic fine of $25 which big Nelse will have to pay to the league. Burbrink had disagreed with McGowan on several occasions before the fourth and the young arbiter, who was apparently having a bad night behind the plate, had warned the Marion skipper not to come back again to protest ball and strike plays.

But Nelse came out in the fourth when McGowan called a strike on Shuford, new outfielder. Shuford first got Mac told and then Burbrink came out to get the final word. After listening to the protest for a minute McGowan motioned the Marion leader to the gate.

The irate Burbrink stayed long enough to get his $25 worth before leaving. This prolonged the contest which may have helped to stall until the rains came.

Dalton, Dayton southpaw, had held the Cubs to a lone single by John Smith in the four innings of play. "Jitts" Lawrence, Cubs right hander had given up four hits, but was repeating the performance of John Edington in Thursday night's contest, having walked six men in the four innings. Edington walked 12 Thursday night, but won the game 7 to 5.

Outfielder of Promising Size Joins Cub Roster

If size means anything to a ball player the crying need of the Marion Cubs for a hard-hitting outfielder may have been filled.

Robert Shuford looks ready to fill the bill. He is a strapping six-footer weighing 230 pounds from Forest City, N. C.

He came to the Cubs yesterday on option from Fayettesville, N. C. of the class B Tri-State league. Last year while playing for Shelby of the same league he hit for a 274 average and was credited with 50 runs batted in and 50 scored in 67 games. He is a left handed batter, but throws right.

In the game last night he walked in the first inning and grounded out on his second trip. He had traveled all day and night getting here from the south, changing trains five times as he was routed wrongly through Washington, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, and Akron.

Shuford who is 24 years old played college baseball at the University of North Carolina, one of the schools where baseball is a major sport. Bunn Hearn, former big leaguer tutors the Tar Heels. While at Chapel Hill he was a fullback for the football team in 1939-40.

Another newcomer to the Cubs is right-handed pitcher Gasper Pivorunas of Chicago who arrived yesterday from Iola, Kansas of the class D Kansas-Oklahoma-Missouri league.

He had a record there of three wins and no defeats for the season. He is 5 feet 11 inches and weighs 175 pounds. He was in a few games late last year with the same team. He is 23 years old.

Shuford is a four-year veteran of the Marines.

Room for the two new players was made by releasing outfielder Walter Harloup and pitcher Robert Fowler.

TRIBE BACK ON BEAM BEHIND MEL HARDER

20-Year Veteran Wins 219th as Indian Bats Boom.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 7 — Cleveland's Indians were back on the beam today after coming up with an unbeatable combination of fine pitching and timely hitting.

Mel Harder, 37-year-old right hander now in his 20th season with the Indians, recieved credit for last night's 7 to 5 triumph over the pesky Philadelphia Athletics.

The win was Harder's second in a many starts this season and the 219th of his major league career. Mel set the A's down with only five hits and two runs until he tired in the eighth and was given relief by Ed Klieman.

Two Indians delivered the first home runs of their major league careers. Catcher Jim Hegan belted one over the stadium fence in the second inning while Dale Mitchell, batting champion of the Texas league last year, connected for a tremendous drive that hit the facing of the upper right field stands in the third.

Cleveland clubbed starter Bob Savage for five runs and seven hits in the two and 1-3 innings he lasted.

Manager Lou Boudreau returned to the lineup after injuring his back Thursday but collected only one hit in four trips to the plate and dropped to second place in the American league batting race.

Bob Lemon and Al Gettel drew the Tribe mound assignments for today's doubleheader, with Phil Marchildon and Bill McCahan working for the A's.

TALK OF INTRA-CITY JUNIOR LOOP GROWS

Flood of Legion Candidates Raises Player Problem.

Talk of an intra-city junior baseball league is growing.

Revival of American Legion junior baseball making a playing debut Wednesday night as the Marion Legion team entertains the Lima Legion outfit prior to the regularly scheduled Marion-Lima Ohio State League contest, brought an unexpected number of small fry candidates.

Officials had expected a turnout sufficient to provide one team They got 300 applications.

Heading the list of junior league advocates is Nelson Irvin, American Legion coach.

He points to Cincinati's Bently post which sponsors several teams of various ages from which the official Legion team is drawn. The Bently outfit has gone as high as the national tournament.

Beazley, Fugitive from Cards' Junk Heap, Lifts Boston Hopes

By The Associated Press

Maybe Billy Southworth "knew something" when he grabbed Johnny Beazley off the St. Louis Cardinals' scrap heap and gave him another chance with his Boston Braves.

Although the sore-armed righthander has yet to approximate his 1942 form when he won 21 as a Red Bird freshman, he has copped two in a row for his old boss Southworth who now skippers the Boston crew.

They had Beazley in New York during the week for treatment by a New York specialist who must have known what he was doing. In his first outing since May 8, the 28-year-old "veteran" turned back Cincinnati, 5-2.

Brooklyn Takes Lead

Brooklyn took a half game lead in that wild National league scramble by defeating Chicago, 6-2, breaking out of a tie with the New York Giants who had moved up even with the Dodgers in an afternoon game 11-inning win over St. Louis, 7-4.

"Big Jawn" Mize kept the Giants in the ball game with the Cards, spoiling Howie Pollet's prospective shutout with a grand-slam homer in the sixth. New York finally won on Willard Marshall's homer after Mize and Walker Cooper walked in the eleventh.

Howie Schultz continued the day's speciality, a game-winning homer, when he hit one into the left field seats with the score tied in the last of the ninth at Shibe park. As a result the Phils' Fred Schmidt decisioned Pittsburgh's Art Herring, 4-3. Herring threw to just one batter, Schultz.

Browns Stagger Yanks

The St. Louis Browns' 4-3 win over the New York Yankees stretched Detroit's American league lead to 1½ games. The Tiger's day game with Boston was washed out.

Chicago eked out a 5-4 nod over Washington in another night game, sixth on the evening's program. Floyd Baker raced home with the winning tally after two were out in the last of the ninth to defeat fireman Tom Ferrick. Ed Lopat survived a homer by Buddy Lewis, a double by Al Evans and seven other Washington hits for his fourth win.

Rarified Air of 5th Place Throws Reds

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, June 7—The high elevation of fifth place in the National league proved too much for the Cincinnati Reds, and they were back in sixth today after on a day at the higher levels.

Johnny Beazley, who had been out of action with an ailing arm, pitched for Boston and did it to the Reds last night, with some help from Phil Mazi's fourth home run of the season, a 380-foot drive over the left centerfield fence.

The score of the night contest was 5-2, and the only consolation the Reds got out of it was that they outhit the Bostonians 11 to 7. The teams will play again tonight, with the Reds still to hang up their first victory of the year at the Braves' field. Eddie Erautt is slated to pitch for Cincinnati, and Warren Spahn for the Braves.

Indians Accuse Cubs' Burbrink Of "Stalling"

Dayton today formally protested to league President Frank M. Colley what it described as "stalling tactics" of Cub Manager Nelson Burbrink in last night's contest, The Associated Press reports.

The game was rained out in the fourth inning with Dayton leading 4-0.

Colley told The Associated Press he had been informed that the umpires ejected Burbrink from the game because of stalling.

'SLUGGER FELLER' IS PLEASED. Bob Feller, Cleveland pitching ace, displays artillery he used at Cleveland, Ohio, (June 4) in getting three hits in four trips to the plate, including two doubles, to to help Cleveland Indians down the Washington Senators, 6-2. The victory was Bob's sixth against five losses. (Associated Press Wirephoto).

MANSFIELD STEEL EXECUTIVE QUITS

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., June 7—The president and chairman of the board of the Empire Steel Corp. today resigned because of what he said were "differences among the board of directors regarding company policies."

In a statement made public today after a seven-hour session of the board last night, Joseph B. Montgomery Jr., declared:

The company said Oliver C. Henkel, vice president and secretary-treasurer, would act as president until a successor to Montgomery is chosen, probably at the next regular meeting of the directors June 17.

Empire employs between 800 and 1,000 men.

Montgomery's statement declared the company's financial condition now was "the best in its history," and said when he took over 10 years ago the company was [illegible]

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

"FAITH may come in immediately,' Katharine told Mary 'But she may stay only a few minutes—a very few You will want her to come again, you know."

Mary's eyes were suddenly inscrutable, and I feared to conjecture the bleak thought behind them. That Katharine also was aware of the terrifying thing lurking behind her mask of gayety I was sure, but her voice or manner betrayed no sign of it, even when her patient voiced a macabre jest.

"Yes, if there's a chance," Mary said. "You don't want her to take the risk of finding me wedged between the window bars"

"Faith probably would find that most amusing," Katharine said with a light laugh. "You'd stick fast, you know, you're not that thin, and your waving heels would give Faith a big kick, and you may shoot me for that pun when I come back with Faith"

"Will I drill you!" Mary countered, with an answering laugh that sounded genuinely mirthful, and Katharine turned to me

"If you'll get Faith," she said, giving me a signal which meant that I must curb my small daughter's loquacious tongue, "I'll look after my patient Then, while Faith is in here, I'll telephone her breakfast order and mine to Room Service"

Has Already Ordered

She smiled reminiscently and added: "She already has ordered her meal. I modified it a bit, subject to your approval. She wanted—"

I interrupted her firmly.

"My approval is already granted," I said, "and I'll hear her order some other time Just now I must bring her in here, with a caution that she must not expect to stay long. Otherwise, she would count on camping down for the day

"Incidentally, Katrina," I added, as I moved toward the door, "let this be the last time that I hear anything from you about asking my approval for anything concerning Faith. Remember, she's yours as well as mine"

"Thank you for 'them kind words!'" Katharine quipped, but there was a huskiness in her voice that made the jest serious, and I knew that the assurance I had given her was most welcome

"You're welcome, I'm sure," I retorted, in a prim, highly affected voice, and was glad to hear a giggle from Mary, even though I knew it was a synthetic one. But I was prepared to do almost anything to keep the conversation upon a light key.

Faith On Edge

I found Faith sitting on the edge of her chair, herself also patently on edge in anticipation of seeing Mary. She jumped up as I came in and ran to me

"Are we going in now?" she demanded.

"Gently, darling!" I urged "We're going in right away, but I must tell you some things first."

"I knew it!" she cried dramatically, while I straightened my lips from an involuntary smile. "It's always this way when I'm expecting something pretty nice There's always a string tied to it!"

"If you'd rather not go in to see Cousin Mary," I began, then smiled indulgently at her as I saw the look of absolute horror that came into her face

"I just said that to show you how silly you are to find fault with things that are given you," I said "Now, I want you to listen carefully while I tell you what you are not to do while you are calling on Cousin Mary"

"I'll listen with every bit of my ears," she assured me solemnly. "And I'm terrible ashamed of myself for crabbing the game like I did—as I did, I mean," she amended so quickly that I gave up the task of any other correction of her diction.

"It's only this, Faith," I began "You're not to ask Cousin Mary any questions, and—you know what the boys mean, don't you, when they tell you not to 'talk out of turn'?"

"Sure, I know that," she said with an elaborate air of sapience.

"Well, you're not to do that," I said. "Just tell Cousin Mary how glad you are to see her, and how you've missed her, and then listen while she talks, and answer any questions she asks you. But don't say anything that just happens to come into your head. Think before you speak. Then you won't ask, as you did this morning, 'Who is "him"' and 'Who is "she,"' and 'What are they going to do?' That is the kind of question I mean You won't say anything like that, will you?"

"Cross my heart and hope to die, Scout honor, I won't," she intoned, crossing her heart with gusto. But it was with distinct trepidation that I ushered the bundle of dynamite which is my small daughter into the bedroom where Mary awaited her.
